

Research and Program Development Support

Elarton Point Strategies offers Research and Program Development Support to assist you in your strategic decision-making processes. This service can be accessed separately from our other services -- Strategic Planning and Design, Leadership Development and Organizational Coaching -- if what you really need is simply the data and research to help you make the very best decisions for your team, your programs and your organization.

Environmental scans, stakeholder engagement and satisfaction surveys, small group facilitated SWOT analysis discussions are all a part of what we can do for your design projects. Once we have compiled and interpreted our findings, we will present these both in written and face to face (virtual or on site depending on the circumstances) formats. The information gathered will become a part of your ongoing thought leadership development resources.

Y/Our Investment: “Curiosity. Clarity. Connectivity.”

Elarton Point Strategies considers your investment our investment. We are happy to discuss your needs and resources as part of the conversation about our shared work together.
